Aetna[®] dental discounts

Healthy smiles, healthy employees

The link: dental health and overall health

Healthy employees are more productive and engaged employees, right? It's true.¹ And it turns out that a healthy smile affects the overall health of your employees more than you might think.

Some studies have linked the bacteria and inflammation that go along with severe gum disease to certain health issues. Like heart disease or even premature birth in pregnant women.²

It works the other way around, too. Some health issues like diabetes, osteoporosis and Alzheimer's disease can affect dental health.²

The bottom line? To stay healthy and productive overall, dental health has to be a priority. And it all starts with access to great dental care products at great prices. Check out the discounts all Aetna members receive.
